Dear Doug:

First, to alert you that Dan Proctor will no longer be in charge of obtaining permits. We are negotiating with Talon Resources to do this work in future. However, in the interim, I will follow through on this particular amendment application. I have essentially completed the changes to the permit amendment application but have the following basic questions:

1. Mr. Haddock has asked for redline and strikeout text for additions or deletions. How (specifically) do you want them done? I would suggest that all additional words are in red and are underlined with a single red line. For "strikeout" I would suggest a double strikethrough on all words removed. Would this be satisfactory? This would all be okay when using "Word" but does not appear to be possible with "Excel".

2.. In UNICO's original amendment application of March 16, 2005, I sent a xerox copy of a Lotus 123 spreadsheet. From your letter of March 29, it is obvious that you require more detail. There were also certain items which I had skipped through without going into the finest detail, and some minor errors were also made. Finally, in going through the procedure in the finest detail, I found many areas in which the costs could be reduced. Therefore, I would thus prefer, with your approval, to put all my re-calculations onto an "Excel" work sheet so you can see how I came up with my numbers, with minor notations that I feel might be needed for clarification. I have sent out a purchase order for R.S. Means Heavy Construction Cost Data. This will be delivered to me within the next few days. I also have obtained the Caterpillar Handbook (which are as hard as hens' teeth to obtain).

3.. After the amended notice is determined to be technically complete and you are prepared to issue final approval, you ask that two clean copies of the replacement pages be sent to you. By "clean", do you mean without the redline and strikeout?

You can respond either by e-mail or you can get me on my cell phone at (604) 809-5211.

Regards, Wayne Ash
